

Bullet & Knife Protection Ritual with Alligator Pepper & Boundary Leaf

Overview

This traditional spiritual protection ritual draws on African practices using alligator pepper and boundary leaf to shield against physical and spiritual attacks such as gunshots and knife strikes.

Materials Needed

- 79 Boundary Leaves (Ewe Ajija / Ewe Orimado)
- 7 Seeds of Alligator Pepper (Ataare / Uziza)
- Coconut water or Local Gin (Schnapps / Ogogoro)
- Optional: Kolanut, Camwood or Charcoal Powder, White Cloth, River or Rainwater

Step 1: Spiritual Cleansing Bath

Soak boundary leaves and 3 crushed alligator pepper seeds in a bowl of river/rain water overnight.

Use it at dawn to bathe from head to toe without soap. Air dry.

Recite: 'Any evil eye that sees me shall go blind, any hand that draws a weapon against me shall wither.'

Step 2: Libation and Invocation

Pour coconut water or gin onto the ground. Hold 7 alligator pepper seeds in your mouth.

Say: 'Spirits of my fathers, guardians of my head (ori), protect me. Let alligator pepper scatter any evil arrow.'

Spit the seeds in a cross shape on the ground or into flowing water.

Step 3: Boundary Leaf Activation

Rub fresh boundary leaf across your forehead, chest, and back.

Say: 'I am protected by the sacred leaf. No blade or bullet shall enter me.'

Carry a piece of the leaf with you in cloth or pocket for ongoing protection.

Step 4: Protective Marking (Optional)

Grind alligator pepper with camwood or charcoal. Mix with coconut water.

Bullet & Knife Protection Ritual with Alligator Pepper & Boundary Leaf

Draw a spiritual 'X' on your chest or shirt lining. It is believed to deflect harm.

Daily Quick Prayer

Hold 1 alligator pepper seed, say:

'I walk with divine shield. I am invisible to harm. No man shall shoot or cut me.'

Swallow or bury the seed.
